DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1,5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baghel et al (6272938) in view of Sireci (2381698).

Baghel discloses a sampling device 15. The sampler has a closed bottom and an open upper end. A knothole is in the upper end of the chamber to which a line 21 is attached to lower and raise the device. Sireci teaches attaching a line or rope C to a device by use of a knothole 22 a slot 23 and a stress-reducing aperture 24. A knot in the end of line C is passed through the knothole, slid up the slot to the stress-reducing aperture 24. It would have been considered obvious to use the attachment means of Sireci in place of the attachment means in Baghel since they are considered equivalent parts for performing equivalent functions. As to claims 5 and 6, the sampler of Baghel has a sample retaining means and a sample admitting means on the bottom of the chamber.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baghel et al in view of Sireci as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Faivre (3636594).

Faivre discloses a slot 2 for passing a line to a hole 3. As shown in figure 16, the slot 2 can be plain or zigzag. It would have been considered obvious to form the slot of Sireci in a zigzag fashion as taught by Faivre since the use of a zigzag prevents the line from moving back down the slot.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
